

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly we have suffered the longest continuance of a Government under the auspices of the British Crown, which has endeavored to extend its tyrannical power over these Colonies, and has thus far succeeded in the subjugation of the Colonies, and has thus far succeeded in the subjugation of the Colonies, and has thus far succeeded in the subjugation of the Colonies.

He has refused his assent to laws which are most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has refused to assent to laws which are most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has refused to assent to laws which are most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has refused to assent to laws which are most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has refused to assent to laws which are most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has refused to assent to laws which are most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

DEDICATION

This yearbook is dedicated to those brave people who brought about the birth of our nation. To those colonists who acted together and met to oppose the British demands. To those who began the long struggle from the first shots fired at Lexington to the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. To all of those banded together by common ideals who brought about much more than mere independence. To those who established our nation as a place where every human being could be free, and have something to say about how he was governed. These ideals of liberty grow brighter each day...we are grateful.

THE FLAG . . .

Every country has its own flag. Our flag did not always look the way it does today. In the early days the colonists lived in thirteen separate colonies, each with its own flag.

The first days of the Revolutionary War, the colonists carried their old flags into battle. They needed one flag to stand for all the colonies fighting together. The American flag was to have a star and a stripe for each of the thirteen colonies.

The Betsy Ross Flag with the stars arranged in a circle was based on the idea that no colony should take precedence. This flag evolved into our present day flag.

All other flags soon disappeared after the Stars and Stripes was adopted, yet the insignia shown on some of them appears occasionally on a state flag.

Bennington Flag

I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed, a democracy in a republic, a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

William Tyler Page

Be Americans. Let there be a section on the North, South, East or West. You are all dependent one on another and would be one in town. In one word, be a nation, be Americans, much to be desired.

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

"A thoughtful mind when it sees a nation's flag, sees not the flag, but the nation itself. And whatever may be its symbols, its insignia, he reads chiefly in the flag, the government, the principles, the truths, the history that belongs to the nation that sets it forth. The American flag has been a symbol of Liberty and men rejoiced in it."
